(One goal is to IMPACT the St. Louis area Hurt and Hopeless!!!)

Over the past two years, I have spent a large amount of time volunteering in both local church ministry and outreach. Through this experience, I have found myself passionately desiring to dedicate even more time in ministry. As a child, I always assumed I would work in the ministry field. However, I have spent most of my adult life working in the education and sales fields. Both of these endeavors have been remarkable and have been such agents of growth.

The last six months my family has taken a step back to examine our life and to spend time looking at the possibility of what our future could hold. We have decided as a unit to dedicate our lives to serving others in a team approach. This means making several changes both individually and as a group.

For now we are taking a huge step of faith. Today I resigned my position as a National Sales Director for Mary Kay Cosmetics. This was not an easy decision because I love the Mary Kay opportunity and the relationships that have been built as a result of serving with this company. However, I can't deny the near burning passion I have to free my time to move in the direction that God is taking my family.

Throughout the next few months, we will be working together in my husband's health and wellness business. Our focus will be on building assets to help further the ministry part of our dream. If you would like to follow our family in this new journey, just reply to this post and let me know and we will send you

Amy ~ that is a huge faith walking step!! God won't take you where he won't lead you and be with you. If that makes any sense. LOL You have been an inspiration to me and I look forward to hearing what God is doing through you and your husband and family.

Luv,
Elisa

Although I never had the privilege to be in any of your classes, I do have one of your CDs, "Creating an Exciting Unit Meeting", and I LOVE IT! "You've gotta say it so, when it ain't so, so that it can BE so"! Thank you for your words of wisdom. God bless you and your family on this wonderful new journey! Would love to know how it's going. Thank you!

So excited for you! My first MK retreat as a consultant, you were there. You inspired me then and you inspire me now. I recently stepped down as a director for similar reasons. It was a gut wrenching decision for me, so I can only imagine how hard it has been for you. Can't wait to hear how God uses you! I admire your courage!

I will miss you. I totally understand your decision, but I always loved it when you were a part of the director's meetings here in St. Louis. I would love to be part of your updates. I pray God's blessings on your new adventure in life. With Him as your Guide, you can never fail!! Cheryl Hirsch
